HOUSING EXPEDITOR EASES REQUIREMENTS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28—Federal permits will not be required for construction of houses, effective June 1.

Housing Expeditor Frank R. Creedon, announcing this today, also said he is lifting then the restriction on number of bathroom fixtures that may be installed in new homes; and is expending the area limitation from 1,500 square feet to 2,000 square feet.

Creedon said controls which will be continued include:

Government authorization for non-housing construction; veterans preference, which provides a veteran first choice in buying or renting property not intended for the builders' own occupancy; rent ceilings on new construction.

Creedon said the permit system is being eliminated to "further simplify the few remaining restrictions" on homebuilding.

He said increased availability of bathroom fixtures makes possible the lifting of the one-bathroom limitation.

Concerning the expansion of area limits, which were set up originally because of shortages of building materials, Creedon said: "There has been a marked improvement in most of the materials, although there is still a shortage about half a dozen items."

Creedon emphasized that the remaining controls will be continued "until conditions permit further relaxation or unless congress directs their removal before then."

Strike Forces Sons To Dig Grave For Cleveland Mother

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 28—There was a patch of freshly spaded soil today at lonely Lakeview cemetery, where three sons grimly dug a grave for their 72-year-old mother.

And it was the first new grave there in six weeks, for during that time AFL union gravediggers have been on strike. This one, said the men who spaded it yesterday, was made over the protests of some pickets.

The task of burying the aged woman—Mrs. Ora Estella Blackburn of Berea, O.—was conducted by Dr. Laurence Blackburn, 49, pastor of St. Anne's Episcopal church, Lowell, Mass.; Wallace M. Blackburn, 36, of Detroit; and Harold Blackburn, 42, of Framingham, Mass.

Working under a steady, fine rain, the sons completed the job without, as they feared earlier, any interference from pickets, members of the AFL Arborists and Landscapers union.

And even as the ceremonies ended, Rev. Albert J. E. Manton, officiating pastor from First Methodist church, Berea, peeled off his coat and grabbed a shovel to help fill the grave.

The entire incident was termed by Martin E. Vanderverf, union representative, "one of those things you wish hadn't happened."

Dionne Quintuplets Are Thirteen Today

By The Associated Press

CALLANDER, ONT., May 28—The Dionne quintuplets celebrated their thirteenth birthday today and their father said he was worried because they hadn't yet learned to swim.

Oliva Dionne added that he was thinking about building a private swimming pool on his farm for daughters Annette, Cecile, Marie, Yvonne and Emilie.

"Neither Mrs. Dionne nor myself intend to dictate to them about their future," he said of the quintuplets.

The girls took a holiday from school to admire their gifts—including watches and necklaces from their parents.

The nuns who teach them reported them serious minded, individual in personality, accomplished in music and not much interested in sports or pretty clothes.

FORD OFFERS UNION 15-CENT HOURLY HIKE

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, May 28—The Ford Motor Co. today offered 130,000 CIO production workers the equivalent of a 15 cents an hour wage increase and simultaneously boosted 20,000 salaried employes 10 per cent.

The boost in salaries was limited to those making less than $1,000 monthly and becomes effective June 1, the company said.

The offer was worded to exclude 3,800 striking foremen as long as they were not covered by a contract.

The proposal to the CIO United Auto Workers, which has threatened strike action after three weeks of negotiations, was conditioned on their acceptance of their old contract virtually intact except for wage issues.

It provided an 11½ cent hourly wage boost plus six paid annual holidays, identical with the pattern established in settlements with General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp.

RISING COSTS DELAY START OF CITY SEWER

Estimates Must Be Revised Before Project Can Get Under Way.

A group of property owners on Patterson and Patten streets appearing at city council meeting Tuesday night expressed their desire that cost of construction of a sanitary sewer on Patterson street and sanitary and storm sewers on Patten streets be reestimated by the city engineer and advertised in hope that construction of the sewers may be started this fall. Rising labor costs which resulted in increased estimates by contractors forced the city board of control to reject bids on the two projects.

At last night's meeting Tom S. Cathers, city engineer, said estimates would have to be raised at least one-third over the figures originally thought adequate. Original estimate on the Patterson street project was $7,961.50, and on the Patten street sewer, $4,782.80. Contributing to the high cost on the two streets, Mr. Cathers explained, is expense of laying a sewer in rock which comes near the surface in this area.

Suitable space will be marked off in the municipal parking lot at the corner of Prospect and Church streets as the result of adoption of a resolution directing the safety-service director to set aside portion of the lot for use of physicians only. The resolution passed by a vote of five to four.

Sewer Legislation Passed

A resolution was adopted authorizing the city engineer to prepare plan, profiles, specifications and estimates for construction of sanitary and storm sewers in Frederick street from North State to the east terminus. Council also adopted a resolution authorizing the engineer to prepare estimates on sanitary and storm sewers on North State street from Fairground to Hazen street, on Harrison from State to the east end, on Hughes from State to the east end and on Elk from State to the east end.

Council approved an ordinance appropriating $180.41 from city funds for payment of taxes on Marion airport property for the tax period ending in June.

Zoning Change Asked

A request for changing of lots at the corner of Bellefontaine and Gill avenues from residential to commercial zone for the purpose of constructing a motor service building was referred to the city planning commission. No action was taken on a request for transfer of a lot at 271 Fairview avenue from residential to commercial zone for the purpose of operating a paint and wallpaper store there. It is expected action will be taken at the next council meeting.

Public hearings were set for July 14 after approval of the city planning commission had been given to requests for zoning of the following lots: 485 North Main street, residential to commercial for purpose of constructing a grocery store building; Otis street and Cheney avenue, residential to commercial, for operating a grocery store, North Main street near city limits, residential to commercial, for use as a soft drink and sandwich stand.

Council also voted to hold a public hearing July 14 on a request for changing part of a lot at the southwest corner Buckeye and Henry streets from residential to commercial zoning for the purpose of building a welding shop. The request was not approved by the planning commission.

The report on the hardness of city water during the period ended May 24 showed a low of 6.5 grains and a high of 7.5 grains.

A petition by residents for installation of a street light at the corner of Clinton street and Woodrow avenue was referred to the utilities committee. The street and alley committee has approved a petition for vacation of an alley east of Kensington street on the city corporation line, and council has referred the petition to the city solicitor for preparation of proper legislation.

MARSHALL TESTIFIES AT MAY FRAUD TRIAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28—Secretary of State Marshall testified today that the Army was making "very heavy cutbacks" in ammunition orders in 1945—the year the government charges ex-Congressman Andrew J. May protested a reduction in a shell contract held by the Garssons munitions combine.

May, wartime chairman of the house military committee, is on trial with Murray and Henry Garsson, officials of the munitions firm, on bribe conspiracy charges. May is accused of taking $55,000 from the Garsson brothers to get them favors at the war department.

Marshall, former army chief of staff, told the jury he knew nothing about May's dealings with the Garssons and that he regarded the Kentucky Democrat as a "man of integrity." Several of May's former congressional colleagues also testified that he enjoyed a good reputation while serving in the house.

The subject of the Garsson shell contract came up after Marshall related that he had met May and other congressional leaders at "secret dinner meetings" in 1944 to review war strategy and discuss Army production needs.

The secretary said the urgent need for eight inch shells in the European campaign was discussed at these meetings but he could not recall talking to May personally about the matter.

May had testified earlier that he protested the Garsson contract cutback because, at that time, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was "screaming" for more eight inch shells.

Among the congressmen who testified as character witnesses for May was Charldes Elston (R-Ohio).

OHIO SENATORS OPPOSE

By The Associated Press

Bricker (Republicans-Ohio) were recorded yesterday as voting against a proposed amendment to the tax reduction bill which would have permitted wives and husbands in all the states to split their incomes for tax purposes. The senate rejected the proposal.

CRAWFORD CO. MAN ACCUSED

Former Marion Resident To Face Arson Charge, Deputy Fire Marshal Reports.

Gayle Owens, of Marion, deputy fire marshal for this district, today was preparing to file first degree arson charges against a Crawford county resident. The charge is the result of an investigation of a fire which destroyed a five-room unoccupied dwelling several miles northwest of Bucyrus recently.

Owens said he had a signed confession from the man, a former Marion resident. The confession was obtained yesterday when the suspect was taken to the Toledo police department to undergo a lie detector test.

The house, Owens said, was purchased from the National Lime and Stone Co. for $500 and later the purchaser obtained fire insurance in the amount of $1,800.

In his confession the owner admitted setting fire to several window blinds stored in a closet under a stairway, Owens said. Afterwards he drove to Bucyrus where he spent the evening.

The man now is held in the Crawford county jail at Bucyrus. The fire marshal was assisted in the investigation by deputies from the office of Crawford County Sheriff Ralph Schreck.

The charges were to be filed today or Thursday in the office of Leo Scanlon, Crawford county prosecuting attorney, Owens said.

Assembly Boils As Strike Ends

Printers Back but Legislature Talks Up Heavier Labor Curbs.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 28 — Settlement of a jurisdictional strike at a firm handling all printing for the general assembly dispelled threats of curtailed sessions today but left a head of steam behind demands for passage of bills to checkrein labor unions.

The week-long strike at the F. J. Heer Printing Co. ended a few hours after Gov. Thomas J. Herbert told legislative leaders no industrial dispute should "slow down or stop the processes of state government."

He viewed the situation gravely because Majority Leader Frank E. Whittemore (R-Summit) had told the senate that lack of necessary printing might force a weekend adjournment a day ahead of schedule, although House Speaker C. William O'Neill (R-Washington) said the lower chamber would work through tomorrow.

Strike Amendment Hinted

Whittemore hinted that the strike might result in an amendment to pending legislation forbidding strikes by public employes. The change would classify as strikes against the government any walkouts in firms holding contracts with the state, it was explained.

Rep. William R. Van Aken (R-Cuyahoga) said he would renew efforts to bring to a vote in the house a substitute bill to outlaw jurisdictional strikes and otherwise curb unions by a series of tight restrictions.

Confusion resulting from the strike further dampened hopes of the house for the contemplated sine die adjournment June 16.

Passes Strip Mining Bill

The house passed a bill 88-54 to regulate coal strip mining in Ohio and defeated 64-65 a proposal to permit Christian Science practioners to charge a fee for their services.

The measure now goes to the senate.

The house also defeated 31 to 91 a bill to repeal statutes requiring the state to pay old age pensions to qualified inmates of county homes.

The senate completed passage of a measure fixing a $10 fee for automobile licenses, which now cost from $7 to $16, and received a proposal from Sen. George G. Shurtz (R - Coshocton) for county-wide local option on sale of alcoholic beverages.

Spokesmen for dry organizations have declared that failure of the legislature to pass the bill would signal a drive for a state referendum.

THIRD SOUGHT IN INDIANAPOLIS

Jail Breakers Believed To Be Kidnapers of 2 Indiana Men.

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O., May 28—The second of six youthful fugitives from the Mansfield reformatory was captured today by Indiana police after the fleeing prisoners were reported to have kidnaped two men.

William Lucas, 17, of Cincinnati, was captured near Connersville, Ind., west of Cincinnati, this morning.

Galen Briscoe, 20, of Hamilton, O., was caught last night in Connersville.

Sheriff Oscar Haag of Connersville reported that Lucas and James A. Westlake, 19, of Newark, O., had kidnaped two persons and forced them to drive the pair to Indianapolis.

Sheriff Haag identified the kidnap victims as Otis Vance, a filling station operator near Brookville, Ind., and Elmer Lanning, a farmer of near Connersville.

Taken at Station

Haag told this story of the two youths' Indiana adventures:

Westlake and Lucas, he said, kidnaped Vance at his station, after rifling the cash drawer of $90, Vance's billfold and an Army jacket.

They forced Vance to drive them to Brookville, then retraced the route back to Connersville where they released Vance. At nearby Mulltown, Ind., the pair wrecked Vance's car.

They went to the Lanning home, asked Mrs. Lanning for her husband and told a story of another youth being hurt in an auto accident. When Lanning appeared, they forced him to drive them to Indianapolis, where they released both Lanning and his automobile.

Pair Now Armed

Sheriff Haag said the pair now was armed, having stolen two revolvers and a shotgun from a Connersville sporting goods store earlier today.

A rifle the pair took from another car yesterday has been recovered from the White Water river, which flows through Connersville.

Haag said he was told that Briscoe and his companions separated from the three other fugitives when Briscoe decided to visit his mother, Mrs. Hobart Alcorn, who recently moved to Batesville, Ind.

Passes Stolen Car

Indiana State Police Cpl. Fred Porst radioed Connersville police the fugitives were headed there when he passed a car resembling one the escapees resportedly had stolen. A police cruiser met the fugitives' car.

The six escapees overpowered David Robinson, 35-year-old tinshop instructor, here Monday afternoon, kidnaped him, and then put him out of a reformatory truck unharmed near Grand Rapids, O., 28 miles southwest of Toledo.

Yesterday they were believed to have stolen an automobile from Frank Roeder of Bowling Green after abandoning the truck near Grand Rapids.

Reformatory Supt. Arthur L. Glattke, meanwhile, announced that henceforth prisoners may not drive trucks and must alight from a truck for inspection while a guard takes the vehicle outside the institution's gates. Prisoners on legitimate business then may resume the trucks.

Wartime Potato Program Now Results in Unwieldly Surplus

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, May 28—Millions of people starve abroad but here the government destroys carloads of potatoes Why?

Just too many potatoes Many of them, for various reasons, can't be shipped abroad Why too many potatoes?

That's this story

During the war congress passed a law telling the agriculture department to encourage farmers to grow potatoes

James Marlow

It was clear that, if they grew too many, the price would go down Better too many than not have enough

So, to keep potato prices up and save the farmers from losses, congress told the government to buy up surplus potatoes

The real trouble with this plan started when the war ended and the Army, for one, began cancelling its potato orders

Government Bought Surplus

To save the farmers, the government stepped in and bought up the surplus potatoes It got rid of them in several ways.

Some went to relief abroad some to alcohol plants, some as livestock feed, and some were sold abroad.

That was in 1945 All in all, the government lost $15,000,000 that year on its potato deal

Foreseeing a repetition in 1946, the government asked farmers that year to cut down on potato growing They did by 100,000 acres

Unusually Good Year

But 1946 was an unusually good year for potatoes and, in spite of the cut in acreage, the crop was a record

Once more the government stepped in. It bought up 87,000,000 surplus bushels of potatoes and, in the end, lost about $80,000,000 on the deal

It got rid of 65,000,000 surplus bushels this way

At very low prices it sold some to alcohol plants and starch manufacturers Some went as livestock feed More went to the government's school lunch program

And about 10,500,000 bushels, a lot of them as seed, went abroad to Germany, Italy, China, Korea, and other countries.

Destroys Remainder

After all that, the government still had 22,000,000 of the 87,000,000 surplus bushels on its hands It destroyed them.

Why couldn't those 22,000,000 bushels have been shipped abroad to starving peoples? The agriculture department explains it this way:

Flour, which can be bought for 5 to 6 cents a pound, is far cheaper than potatoes to ship abroad

The cost is about 18 cents a pound to de-hydrate potatoes, which are 80 per cent water, so they can be shipped in a space-saving way

So, the agriculture department says, UNRRA, which was sending relief abroad, didn't want those 22,000,000 bushels as a gift

New York Not Mecca for Midwesterners Now

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 28—Coming back to the middle west, I always wonder why people ever emigrate from here to New York. I did it myself 10 years ago, and I still can't make up my mind whether it was a good idea.

For the advantages that living in Manhattan once had over life in inland towns and cities have pretty well disappeared.

The difference used to weigh heavily in favor of New York. Now the balance seems to swing the other way.

Fifty years ago the great eastern metropolis could feel pretty smug in its artistic, commercial and cultural superiority over the other American cities. That is no longer true.

Hal Boyle

More Time for "Culture"

Here in the midwest the leading cities have their own symphony orchestras. Their women's shops carry Fifth avenue styles. The radio programs, the movies, the magazines, the latest books—all are as available here as they are in New York. And the people seem to have more time to enjoy them.

No longer must the struggling artist sweat out his talent in a metropolitan garret to win a name. The "Made in Greenwich Village" label isn't necessary now to sell a picture out this way. The midwest artist can stay home and paint home country scenes, because his neighbors have become art-conscious.

The same thing is even more true of writers. Many of the best don't go to New York for material; they just drop in occasionally to sign contracts and do their writing elsewhere. They spend the money, elsewhere, too.

Getting Less Comfortable

But the main falling off in New York life lies in the field of everyday creature comforts. Yearly it is getting more crowded, more noisy, more trouble to live in.

Out here you can have a lawn and a flower bed. In Manhattan you buy a flower pot and let it go at that.

The automobile has been an instrument of liberation to most of the hinterland. In New York it is a nuisance. Insurance rates are high, parking space is all but nonexistent, and a garage costs almost as much by the month as a small flat. So most families don't buy one.

This has tended to make New Yorkers more insular. They have much less first-hand knowledge of America than the midwest farmer or city worker who puts his wife and kids in the car and drives 2,000 miles or more during a two-week vacation.

Life is expanding and breaking old bonds in the midwest and throughout the rest of the country. It is becoming richer and fuller. In New York this isn't true in the same manner. The slums clear very slowly, life rides to the subway's grind, and the concrete wilderness presses more heavily upon the spirit. There aren't enough green and growing things around. Tempers are shorter, service is worse.

But it would be unfair to New York to say it has nothing to compensate for the lost spaciousness of living you leave behind when you come to it from the American heartland. There is a throb and pulse about Manhattan that, once felt, you can never forget. It is a sense of being part of the craziest, most wonderful, biggest and noisiest sideshow in history.

Whether this feeling makes up for all you give up when you go there to stay is something I still haven't figured out after 10 years.

Marionite Granted Patent on Device

Fred L. White, chief engineer of the Osgood Co., has been awarded two patents for his design of a new crowding device for a light excavator manufactured by the company, the United States patent office has announced.

The device is used in moving the dipper of the excavator in and out while it is being raised or lowered, an operation termed "crowding," Mr. White said. The new invention utilizes wire ropes instead of chains used in heavier models. Two distinct advantages are the lightness of wire rope in comparison to chains and the fact that a reversing procedure necessary when chains are used need not be used with wire ropes.

Two excavators carrying the new device have already been built, Mr. White said, and have proved satisfactory in operation. Work on the invention was started in the summer of 1945. It will be incorporated as a regular feature of the company's light excavator.

In 1944 the nation had 412,851 producing oil wells.

Altrusa Club Entertains At Annual Dinner

MEMBERS of the Altrusa club chose last evening to observe their annual custom of inviting heads of other service clubs in the city and their wives to join them for dinner and a program at Hotel Harding. Across the center of the U-shaped table were iridescent rose bowls holding tall lighted tapers set in bouquets of violets and other spring flowers and at either end was a crystal vase filled with spring flowers. Favors were small nut cups wrapped in gay colored cellophane and tied with ribbons.

For the program the music was by the Harding High school a cappella choir and Mrs. Marion Clark gave a book review. Mrs. Ruth Wiant, president, presided and the program was in charge of Mrs. Jane Ross, program coordinator.

The vested choir of 55 voices, directed by L. G. Jones, supervisor of music in the public schools, presented a delightful program including "My God and I," which has come to be a traditional favorite with local audiences. Soloists were Miss Jackie Creager, Miss Barbara McDonald, Miss Pat Dearing and Jim Rea. Frederick Lacey presided at the piano. The numbers also included "Hear My Prayer," "Softly and Tenderly," "We Thank Thee, Lord," "Was I 'Fraid?" "Russian Picnic," and "Echo Song." The singers closed their program with a benediction composed by Peter Lutkin. The program marked the final appearance of the 1947 choir and the members turned in their robes this morning after presenting more than 15 programs before clubs and other organizations during the year.

Mrs. Clark chose for her review the hilarious autobiography of Louise Baker, "Out on a Limb," and gave her audience an entertaining picture of the author's experiences in turning her handicap into an asset.

Guests included E. L. Cleveland, president of the Kiwanis club and Mrs. Cleveland, Henry A. Mickley, president of Rotary club and Mrs. Mickley, Cecil Gabler, president of the Lions club and Mrs. Gabler, Richard Myers, president of the Y's Men's club and Mrs. Myers, Miss Mary K. Arrangements were in charge of the social committee, Miss Ruth O'Connor, chairman, Miss Helen Bowe, Miss Helen Kramer, Mrs. Ruth Langley, and Miss Edna Rhodes.

WASHINGTON, May 28—Here is the complete text of one of the day's shortest speeches in the house, as delivered by Rep. Matthews (R-NJ): "What this country needs is a foreign policy that is less foreign and more policy."

Marion Couple To Mark Golden Wedding Sunday

MR. AND MRS. SAMUEL F. SNYDER of 194 Gurley avenue will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Sunday, June 1, with open house at their home. The celebrants will receive their relatives, friends, and neighbors from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and will be honored at noon when their children and families entertain with a dinner.

The bride of 50 years ago was Miss Ida Zachman, born on a farm in Waldo township, Marion county, and lived there with her parents until her marriage. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Snyder taught school three years in the Prospect and Waldo school districts having attended Ohio Northern university at Ada.

Mr. Snyder was born on a farm in Prospect township, Marion county, and lived there with his parents until his marriage in 1897. At the age of 20, having worked on the farm until that time, Mr. Snyder began to do carpenter work on farm dwellings and barns as an apprentice.

After their marriage and after they had established their home at the Gurley avenue address where they have resided ever since, Mr. Snyder continued in the carpenter business and studied a builder's course in a correspondence school. His work was mostly supervising carpenter work on large buildings for various contractors. He supervised the building of the Sawyer Sanatorium and built a number of houses for one real estate agent, and then accepted a position as maintenance director of the Sawyer Sanatorium. He has held that position for the last 28 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder are active members of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church, both having held offices in the various church organizations.

The couple have one son and one daughter. The son, Wilbert F. Snyder, lives with his family in Bethesda, Md., a suburb of Washington, D. C. They are expected to arrive here tonight. The daughter, Mrs. Howard E. Dygert, resides in Pittsford, N. Y., a suburb of Rochester. She and her family are to arrive here Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Snyder also have four grandchildren.

Mrs. Snyder has two brothers, Harry Zachman of Mt. Vernon avenue and Paul Zachman of South Main street. Mr. Snyder has one brother, Frank Snyder of Oak street, and three sisters, Mrs. Emma Wagner of Pearl street, Mrs. J. G. Evans of Ridgeway, O., and Mrs. W. E. [illegible] of Lorain.

Meteorologist Reports Basis For Long-Range Weather Tips

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK, May 28 — A basis for some general long-range weather forecasts, by using certain regions as weather indicators, is reported by Irving I. Schell in a Harvard university meteorological study.

The method worked 11 out of 13 times in predicting less or more winter precipitation than normal in Montana and for Florida in seven different years, he said.

Weather in one region often affects weather in a distant region. Furthermore, Schell said, in some areas the same general kind of weather tends to persist from one season into the next. Where this happens, he said, the earlier season can be used to predict roughly what the next season's weather will be like in the distant region.

Finds Four Examples

Schell said he found four examples of such weather effects after studying records over many years. They concern winter precipitation in northern and northwestern Europe, and the southern Asia Indies monsoon season.

The American northwest, he examined, receives more storms from the Pacific and more rain in winter than normally in December through February when there generally are low pressures in the same months in tropical Australasia — at such points as Calcutta, Batavia, Port Darwin, and Manila. Conversely, generally high pressures there mean fewer storms and less precipitation.

The tendency for pressures to be either high or low seems to persist from the preceding three months, thus giving a basis for forecasts, he said.

Southeast Tied In

The American southeast can be included, he added, because the southeastern states tend to have over the opposite relative winter precipitation than the northwest. In actual predictions, Schell said he missed twice on Montana in seven years, and once on Florida. On all three misses, he added, the deviations in Australasian pressures had been slight.

Northern Europe tends to have colder weather in February and March when there has been less-than-normal movement of warmer air across the eastern north Atlantic into the Arctic regions in January and February, he said. Conversely, a greater volume of warmer air moving into the Arctic in those months means less cold air coming out later. This circulation across the Atlantic can be measured roughly.

Ice Affects Atlantic

Ice from the Greenland sea drifts southward in April through July. When it comes farther south than normally, it apparently helps put the north Atlantic storm track of October-December farther south, Schell said. This means more storms and more rainfall for Eire, Great Britain, Denmark and other areas of northwest Europe, with less for northern Norway, he said. The opposite appears to hold when the sea ice stays farther north than usual, Schell continued.

In a fourth example, Schell said that above normal pressure at Port Darwin in November appears associated with late development of the monsoon and below normal November rainfall in the southern East Indies. Below normal pressure there apparently means early monsoon development and more rain, he said. Strong persistence is found in the pressure at Port Darwin from August-October on through November, he reported.

HOOVER SAYS ENEMY'S INDUSTRY NEEDS FREEING

Sufficiency for Reich Seen in 3 Years If Russ, French Join.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28—Herbert Hoover said yesterday industry of former enemy countries must be unshackled and expressed belief that world economic recovery could come "in two or three years" if Russia and France will cooperate.

The former president talked to reporters after he appeared before a house appropriations subcommittee to back up the administration's request for a $725,000,000 civilian relief fund for occupied countries.

He told newsmen that:

1. He is now engaged in a private study of how great a load this country can bear in world relief and recovery work, with the probability his finding will be ready "in a couple of weeks."

2. He would not regard a separate peace with Germany a violation of an international agreement. "If the other party consistently fails to carry out or violates the terms, I don't think you are under any moral obligation . . . I don't see why we are obligated to go on forever under these strains."

3 "More rigorous action" is needed in foreign countries to collect food which is now going into the black markets.

Security Begins at Home

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S request for New world defense is more likely to be granted by congress this year than it was last year. The United States has been jarred into the dismal realization since the Act of Chapultepec was adopted at Mexico City in the spring of 1946 that hemispheric defense may need to be more than a wistful theory in the brave new world that isn't turning out to be much different from its predecessor.

In other words, security still begins at home. There is no less to hope for from the United Nations than there was when congress refused to let Mr. Truman go ahead with hemispheric defense a year ago, but most Americans now see that cooperative security itself is a wishful thought. Even hemispheric security continues to be a wishful thought, as far as that's concerned.

Security in the New World has been a chief concern of this country since 1823 when the Monroe Doctrine was declared. This government declared then that the American continents were closed to "new colonial establishments."

There has been a long struggle to carry out this policy against the interference of various European governments. Mr. Truman's present recommendation for legislation to back up the policy with a program of military collaboration is one more step toward the American security that has never quite been attained. When World War II began, the United States had to be concerned with the possibility of Axis attacks from South America. Military collaboration would decrease the possibility of Axis attacks from South America. Military collaboration would decrease the possibility of Latin American republics coming under the influence of some other aggressor nation, or conspiracy of nations.

A sentence in the Monroe Doctrine says: "It is only when our rights are invaded or seriously menaced that we resent injuries or make preparation for our defense." That has been true for 125 years. There have been no wars of conquest launched from the Americas. The American republics have fought only in their own defense.

Mr. Truman asks the 80th congress to do what the 79th congress refused to do—increase the margin of hemispheric security. A congress which has given him permission to carry out a "Truman Doctrine" in Greece and Turkey can't very well deny him permission to continue the Monroe Doctrine in the New World.

We Won't Forget

CONCERNING the recent lynch trial in Greenville, S. C., Thomas Wofford, principal defense attorney, says, "I wish everybody would forget about it and leave us alone." But everybody won't forget. An increasing segment of responsible white southerners won't forget; the United States, which would be an international champion of minorities, won't forget; and our caustic foreign critics won't forget.

Attorney General Clark hasn't forgotten. He has referred to the Greenville verdicts as an outrage. A fair trial is of no value if the evidence is disregarded in rendering the verdict.

A North Carolina Negro has escaped from a lynch mob and surrendered to FBI representatives. This probably would be an example of the "outside meddling" referred to by the Greenville defendants' counsel. Some southerners no doubt would have preferred to handle that case "in their own way," as they so neatly put it, but it is out of their hands now.

Lynching isn't exclusively a southern problem but in the South more than anywhere else it has had official connivance, or at least official laissez-faire. Unless the South can establish a system whereby justice is assured for lynchers, the states will lose such cases to federal authority. Punishment of mob action, which deprives a man of his life and civil rights guaranteed under the Constitution, can certainly be written into federal law if need be.

The Tobacco Standard

SINCE the Germans are so avid for American cigarets as a medium of exchange, it is humorously suggested that instead of shipping them 400,000 tons of wheat we send them a shipload of tobacco ingots. These would be deposited in German banks and notes issued against them to replace the depleted German currency.

A buyer well supplied with cigarets can go through the German countryside picking up cheeses, hams, sides of beef and a great variety of other foods that marks never bring out of their hiding places. Only a fraction of the German farmer's potential food-producing capacity is being realized because he has no incentive to increase production and no great desire to part with what he does grow. Dangle the right carrots in front of the donkey and the farm cart will start rolling again.

If tobacco is what's needed to put German economy back on its feet, let's ship it. To Gresham's Law and the other maxims evolved by economists, let there be added one to the effect that tobacco can be a more satisfactory monetary standard than a precious metal if the people would have it so. This would be known as the Liggett & Myers Law.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

CIOPAC Revival Passes Almost Unnoticed.

WASHINGTON, May 28—It passed sensationally unadvertised by the usual publicity, but the CIOPAC started up quietly about a month ago. Together with an affiliated Jekes organization and one other similar pressure group, a leftwing political action revival was started. On the CIO plane alone it calculated raising $6,000,000 to "reach into key congressional districts" to reverse the popular trend immediately.

Even some good clipping services in Washington missed the significance if not the whole news at the time and cannot even now find out about a more recent news promotion meeting of CIO leaders with certain labor editors.

Not until a certain editorial group investigated to ascertain the source of an unexplainable avalanche of criticism against it lately did the matter achieve proper significance. And since then not a few congressmen and most publicity organizations in town have been trying to find out what is happening. Particularly are congressmen who are suffering the severity of union pressure back home looking into the matter.

How It Happened

As nearly as I can piece it together largely from an investigation by a congressional authority and CIO sources, here is what happened:

CIO rather fully advertised its proposed revival campaign in a weekly news letter May 4, making no particular secret of the matter, sending its letter even to some congressmen. Their political action phase had been dormant since an act of congress made their financial activities in this respect legally difficult. But at a CIO-PAC meeting a month ago, they decided to raise $1 each from 6,000,000 members to "send field workers into the key congressional districts" and otherwise "rally the unions" and naturally also the public politically on a local basis (repeat local basis.) They thought such action necessary because the labor reform bill was going against them.

Labor editors were called in, according to one report made by a survey service. The editors discussed for three hours plans to stimulate the campaign in news columns, presumably theirs on a local basis, which would not come to national attention much. Unanimous agreement was made on a course of action. Speakers stressed the point that CIO Political Action machinery must be perfected to retaliate against the anti-labor legislators in congress and to turn public sentiment.

PAC Director Jack Kroll (who took Sidney Hillman's place) made a speech according to another report from a CIO source, saying he intends to build PAC on a permanent basis now, presumably locally and thus generally unnoticed. He dispelled any suggestion that it folded after the last election. One who was present ventured to quote David J. MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the Steel Workers and PAC, in this report. He has Mr. MacDonald saying to the meeting: "You know what is happening to us on Capitol Hill and throughout the states. It makes you shudder and wonder whether we will be able to cooperate with our international Unions. But I am not willing to wait and find out. Let's be in a position to change that whole situation in 1948. I thing we can do it."

Decentralized

The nature of the step is difficult to report with guaranteed accuracy because it skirts close to the law, is run from Washington but away from it and the scope of the drive apparently reaches not only through the normal fields of politics, but into news, publicity, and even perhaps eventually into radio, stage and art. Also this is the first such campaign in an off year. But it is accurate to say the lack of publicity about the movement has encouraged wider than usual Washington apprehensions and is causing many a personal congressional investigation if it does not lead to a full one before the campaign.

Up to now the prevailing Washington notion has been that the election was over, the PAC had quit or reduced itself to "educational activities" of a minor nature and hence the horizon was quiet.

That does not seem to be the case.

Does Cupid Carry a Union Card?

A Michigan couple who met in a picket line during the telephone strike are shortly to be married.

Whatever the public may have thought during the walkout, apparently some operators were still making connections.

Personally, I am intrigued by this picket-line romance. Was it a case of love at first strike?

Boy meets girl is an old, old story. But it usually happens under a June moon rather than the auspices of the Wagner act.

Of course, one can understand their attraction, they having so much in common. . . . including a grievance.

Negotiations have ended and, as soon as they get the local's blessing, they are going to sign a lifetime contract and set up their own closed shop.

They'll soon find what Senator Taft could have told them—there's no such thing as a perfect union—but they'll get along all right if they'll only agree to arbitrate all their differences.

No Crime While Fishing

Herbert Hoover Praises Angling.

HERBERT HOOVER, one of the best-known of our "fishing presidents," recently said in a radio discussion about angling that chief executives liked it because Americans respected privacy on two occasions—praying and fishing. He, Grover Cleveland and Theodore Roosevelt, he explained, were fishermen from boyhood. "Others," he added, "became fishermen after entering the White House. In examining this national phenomenon, I concluded that the pneumatic hammering of demands of the President's mind had increased in frequency with the rising tide of economic and international complexity, and he just had to get away somewhere, somehow, and be alone for a few hours once in a while."

Calvin Coolidge, Mr. Hoover explained, was a "good deal of a fundamentalist in economics, government and fishing, so he naturally preferred angleworms. But when the fly-fishermen of the nation raised their eyebrows in surprise, he took to artificial flies. However, his backcast was so much a common danger that even the Secret Service men kept at a distance until they were summoned to climb trees to retrieve flies."

Fishing, declared the former president, gives the individual an opportunity to wash his soul with pure air—"it brings meekness and inspiration, reduces our egotism, soothes our troubles and shames out wickedness . . . I have never heard of anyone committing crime when out fishing."

Mr. Hoover paid this tribute to a well-known manufacturer of fishing tackle at Akron:

"We have moved upward and onward from the primitive willow pole with a butcher-string line and hooks (10 for a dime) whose compelling lure was one segment of a worm and whose incantation was spitting on the bait.

"We have arrived at labor-saving devices and increased efficiency in tackle assembled from the bamboo of Burma, the steel of Sweden, the lacquer of China, the tin of Bangkok, the nickle of Madagascar, the silver of Nevada and the feathers of Brazil—all compounded into mass production at Akron, Ohio."

Mr. Hoover added that "we no longer call it a 'pole,' for it is a 'rod,' and we no longer say that a fish 'bites'—he now 'strikes'."

Public Service Unions

ORGANIZATIONS of public employes operate in 687 cities, according to a survey by the International City Managers Association.

This is an increase of 50 per cent since 1941, when such groups operated in 446 of the 1,072 U. S. cities over 10,000 population. The three national unions involved claim memberships totaling more than 250,000, about 170,000 of whom are municipal employes. The rest are employed by states, the federal government, and other governmental units.

Forty cities now have formal agreements with unions of municipal workers. Agreements in five cities cover all municipal employes while in 34 cities they are limited to certain groups; namely public works and street employes. The agreements provide for deduction of union dues in 16 cities and the union shop in nine cities.

Locals of national unions of public employes now operate in 303 cities. Two of these unions are A.F.L.—the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Workers, and the International Association of Fire Fighters. The third public service union is C.I.O. —the United Public Workers of America. This union has locals in at least 192 cities as compared to 88 in 1941.

Independent municipal employe organizations were established for the first time last year in 19 cities and now operate in more than 130 cities.

The Keenan Dispatch

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, May 28—The best way to understand the nature and purposes of American policy is to understand the minds and views of the men who make it. In this light, there is the greatest possible significance in the appointment of George Kennan to head Secretary of State George C. Marshall's new planning section. For Kennan is the author of the most important single state paper on the Soviet Union to be written since the Soviet problem began to dominate international relations.

It is extremely rare, in the nature of things, that a single telegram or dispatch from any embassy abroad achieves special celebrity, even within the highly limited circle to which such documents are commonly communicated. But this dispatch of Kennan's is by now pretty well accepted as the classic statement of the greatest problem confronting the modern world. And this holds true not only for the chief architects of American policy, but also for British and other leaders abroad to whom it has been shown in confidence, as the diplomatic custom is.

The dispatch was composed in February, 1946, at the height of the Iranian crisis. In the absence of Averell Harriman, Kennan was then charge d'affaires at Moscow. By reason of his reputation as the senior American expert on Russia and one of the most distinguished American diplomats, he was requested to offer his estimate of the situation at length and in detail.

Significant Statement

The first section of Kennan's answering dispatch was keyed to a deeply significant, now almost wholly forgotten, statement by Generalissimo Stalin to a delegation of American trades union workers who visited Russia in 1927. To these Americans, Stalin remarked that "in the course of the further development of the international revolution" there would emerge "two centers of world significance."

The first of these would be "a socialist center (i. e. a Soviet Communist center) tending to draw to itself" countries with like systems; and the second would be a "capitalist center (i. e., non-Communist, including governments by ordinary definition so-socialist, like the British), drawing to itself the countries which tend towards capitalism." Stalin bleakly added that "the battle between these two centers for command of the world economy" would ultimately decide the future of world development.

Against the background of the Kremlin's conviction of the inevitability of struggle, Kennan sketched in the nature of the Kremlin's approach to foreign relations. Westerners were inclined to forget that the Soviet leaders began with the basic teachings of their holy books; that the whole non-Soviet (or "capitalist") world is beset by internal conflicts, and that these conflicts hold out both an opportunity and a threat to the Soviet Union. The threat consists, of course, in the possibility that the conflicts of non-Soviet world will lead to war, and that the war will be transformed into an attack on the Soviet Union. Equally obviously, the opportunity arises from the weakening effect of internal conflict on all non-Soviet states, and the resulting increases in relative Soviet strength and chance to extend Soviet influence.

Two-Part Policy

This Soviet doctrine is sustained by the extraordinarily distorted reports from abroad from the Soviet embassies, espionage nets and the Communist parties. It is interpreted by a conspiracy within a conspiracy which results from the internal struggle for power at the Kremlin. The end product is the Soviet policy with which the world has by now become only too familiar, forecast by Kennan in 1946 in most accurate detail. This is a policy in two parts. It seeks to improve the opportunity presented by the outer world's troubles, by gaining strategic points from which further Soviet advances will be easy, and by using the Communist parties abroad and all other means available to promote internal conflicts and weaken non-Soviet states. By the same methods, the Soviet policy seeks to guard against the imagined threat of anti-Soviet action by states not comprised within the Soviet system.

Kennan's prescription to solving this problem was as considered and judicious as the statement of the problem was penetrating and bleak. The Soviets have no fixed plans, withdraw before resistance, and are still weaker than the unified Western world.

A basic change in Soviet policy is far from impossible. Such a change has in fact occurred once already, during the internal struggle after the death of Lenin, and may occur again in the aftermath of Stalin's retirement or as a result of some other Soviet upheaval. The long-range goals of American policy—true world organization and collaborative solution of world problems—cannot be achieved without a basic change in Soviet policy. Thus a change in Soviet policy must be America's chief interim objective.

And the way to seek such a change is as simple to describe as it is difficult to execute—disprove the theories on which Soviet policy is founded.

Salvation Army In Mexico

Possibly one reason for the rapid increase in Bible circulation and Bible reading in Mexico is the National Crusade for evangelism conducted under the direction of the Salvaton Army. This campaign centered its activities in a house-to-house distribution of separately-bound Gospels in the cities, towns, vilages and out in the ranches. The little books were presented at each door after a short personal presentation of the meaning of the Gospel. The Gospel portions were secured through the American Bible Society, the books being sent to Mexico in carload lots.

This department suggests that at the c federal inquiry into juvenile delinquency, E hibit A be a package of photographs show assistant district attorneys, assorted prose and other law enforcement chieftains posin "grinny and giggly," with laughing killers, t creating the idea that it is all an occasion general merriment.

T killer, a woman, had a few hours before smi "Take me nice. And remember I only weigh pounds" to photographers. And in the snaps with the Assistant D.A. she was still a pictu of carefree happiness, with the law enforceme official contributing to the "It's all good, cle fun" mood.

The legitimate and logical question of a normal, law abiding human being to the photographs in cases of murder, arson, rape a general violence is "What's so funny?"

You might expect certain morons, bums a all around heels to register amusement in air of foul play and revolting criminality, t when public servants chosen for the specific of discouraging crime lear, laugh and strug to register their own playful personalities a behave in general for purposes of photograp as if they were awarding an "Oscar," crowni a bathing beauty or dedicating a picnic grou whenever they are snapped with a murderess, murderer, or an orphan asylum firebug, it time to call a halt and demand "What goes here, boys?"

We suggest that as the first shot in any dri to stop juvenile outlawry and stymie crime, t heat be turned on any and all law enforceme officials, from cop to judge, who register fli pancy, good fellowship and general jollity they pose beside thieves, racketeers, punk rapists, throat slitters, and other public menace

What the public is asking (as it holds its nos is how it is possible for officials with colle educations, special preparations for law enforc ment and qualifications for their jobs to ta such a jaunty attitude toward crime and st hold their positions? Looking at these pictures which are a com monplace in every city in the country, you woul get the idea that plenty of officials think the are running crime world reception committee instead of law enforcement bureaus.

What's become of the American law enforce ment officer who could register nothing but dis gust with and contempt for killers and gang sters? And where is the old time "D.A." wh would rather be caught dead than caught smirk ing with a Bluebeard, a Jack the Ropper o Mazie the Cutthroat?

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: I see by tonight's paper tha something is going to be done about the German using cigarets for currency. This makes m feel bad.

One of the few bright things men have though of is to use something for money that has in trinsic value. This is especially true since ou own country went off the gold standard—bu don't ask me about that. I never understood

All I know is that the shinplasters we now a passing from hand to hand are looking more an more like pieces of paper colored green wit fancy designs on them and less and less lik real money. A $1 bill is becoming a unit of pet cash. A fellow can buy his lunch with it, handful of smokes, or maybe some chances on plow. But for practical purposes, the $1 bill losing its value. The other day I saw an old fashioned silver dollar—a cartwheel—and found myself thinking maybe what this country need is money you can get your teeth into. If worse comes to worst, a fellow could sell a silver dolla to someone who needed the silver in it. See wha I mean.

Cigaret currency is even better because if worse comes to worst people with cigarets can put 'em in their pipes and smoke 'em, so to speak. The ideal currency, I suppose, would be chunks of hard tack, or vitamin capsules—something a fellow could eat in a pinch. A chunk of hard tack, you see, would have intrinsic value. It would sustain life for another day. Are you following me? A learned lecture like this on the mysteries of money is not to be taken lightly.

In the old days in this country, settlers used buckskins for money. There were two things a hard-pressed pioneer could do with a buckskin. He could buy corn meal or he could make himself a pair of leather pants. That is what I am getting at about money that is good for something. A German with a carton of cigarets can exchange them for so much of something else, or if he happens to be flush, he can smoke the cigarets and enjoy them for their intrinsic value. Nothing can take that away.

This looks to me like the solution of the money problem. It would be sort of a self-regulating currency. When money got cheap, as it is now, the public would smoke it up, eat it up, or use it to good advantage then scarcity would make it expensive. I suppose I'm nuts for saying so, but it looks to me as if cigaret currency was the slickest idea we ran into during the whole dirty mess in Europe—the only thing that really worked—so now we are going to do away with it.

Well, if they ever make me secretary of treasury in this country I'll go 'em one better and use soda pop as the medium of exchange. Everybody drinks pop, or knows someone who does, and the state of the union can be controlled by bottling more or less of the stuff. Darned if I see why they let me waste my life here at the Corners when they could move me to Washington, give me some flunkies to order around and quit worrying about the future of this country.

I went fishing this afternoon. Didn't catch anything but thought up this master plan for money, among a couple dozen other things. Give my regards to the family. Tell the boy it won't be long now until there will be no more pencils, no more books, no more teachers' sassy looks.

CONGRESS COOL TO NEW HOUSING PLAN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28—Congressional Republicans gave a cool reception today to President Truman's plan to group the government's housing agencies under a single administrator.

Democrats hoped, however, that time and the heavy legislative schedule would operate in favor of the plan. Under terms of the 1946 reorganization act both houses must disapprove specifically within 60 days to cancel the proposal.

Senator Taft of Ohio chairman of the Republican policy committee, told a reporter he does not look with favor on the appointment of a housing administrator who would have authority to "tell the various agencies what they must do."

He predicted that the house would reject the reorganization proposal, adding that the President's friends are counting on the senate to save the plan.

The President proposed in a message to congress yesterday, to lump all of the housing and home financing agencies under a housing and home finance agency. He recommended that legislation be passed to permit the head of this agency to draw $15,000 annual pay.

Good way to keep a Honey Happy

THINK back to the days when your Buick stood proud, shiny and new at your door. A touch of your toe and that two tons of car romped away gentle as a breeze — and just as obediently glided to a soft, sure stop.

That's the kind of driving that's right in the heart and soul of Buicks. It's there for you to have for years and years — especially when your car gets the kind of care such a honey should have.

That doesn't mean just filling her up and seeing that the oil doesn't get low. Nor a periodic lube job done with "one-kind-for-all" lubricants. It means competent care by men familiar with every part of a Buick — by men who know Buicks best and have an interest in seeing that you get the greatest satisfaction from yours.

Every detail of our service is aimed at this goal. The men are specialists on Buicks. They work with Buick-designed tools. They're backed up by a parts department stocked with Buick-engineered parts that are just made for Buick cars.

So you see the difference between ordinary service and Buick car care. It's the skilful, considerate care that keeps your Buick always a Buick. It's the kind of care which proves that next to you, we like your Buick best.

TIME TO REPOWER?

Suppose your Buick is crowding the big figures in high mileage. Suppose you don't want to wait for that new one. Here's a happy answer.

If your Buick's any model year from 1937 through 1942, you can make it factory-fresh as far as power is concerned with the Buick Power Package.

This is all the major assembly of a new Buick Fireball engine except carburetion and electrical systems. It puts good-as-new zip and performance into high-mileage cars.

Changing over takes less time and often costs less than a really thorough overhaul and replacement job. Easy payments if you wish. Come in and talk it over.

Note Pressure For Red Films

Un-American Committeemen Say White House Ordered Propaganda Movies.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28 — A subcommittee reported to the house un-American activities committee today that "some of the most flagrant Communist propaganda films were produced as a result of White House pressure."

The report did not say who occupied the White House at the time the films were produced.

The report was based on an investigation recently completed in Hollywood by Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R-NJ) and Rep. McDowell (R-Pa).

The subcommittee reported, also, that "the national labor relations board has given great aid to the Communists in their efforts to infiltrate and control the motion picture industry."

The report did not say who in the White House or labor board was responsible for helping Communism in the movie capitol, nor did it say when such assistance was given.

The report recommended that:

1. The full committee "intensify its investigation of Communist influences in the motion picture industry" with a view to public hearings here at the earliest possible date.

2. The committee subpoena Communist actors, writers, directors and producers and "confront them in public session with the testimony and evidence against them."

In addition, the report proposed an investigation to "determine the responsibility and extent of the influence and interference on the part of government agencies or officials in the production of flagrant Communist propoganda films."

SOUTHERN OWNERS BEGIN LEWIS PARLEY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28—Southern coal producers sit down to talk contract terms with John L. Lewis' miners today for the first time in more than a year.

The southern group up to now has blocked negotiation of a contract based on the government's agreement with Lewis. However, representatives of northern, midwestern and far western operators have been negotiating with Lewis for a week, and the southerners, accounting for about 25 per cent of the nation's coal production, asked for a conference, too.

Both groups are striving for a new contract before the June 30 deadline for return of the mines to private owners. They were seized by the government last May to end the 59-day strike which resulted from the deadlocked 1946 negotiations.

The chief differences which existed over Lewis' demands a year ago involved the five cent a ton royalty to finance a miner's welfare fund, a federal mine safety code calling for drastic mine improvements, and unionizations of supervisory workers in a Lewis union.

SENATOR BELIEVES VOTE ON TAX CUT DUE SOON

Millikin Thinks Final Approval Possible by Tomorrow.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28—Senator Millikin (R-Colo) said today he is "more hopeful than ever" that the senate will approve the $4,000,000,000-a-year income tax cut by tomorrow night.

The finance committee chairman's optimism was reinforced by the margin with which the measure cleared its second big test late yesterday.

By the top-heavy tally of 51 to 29, the senate defeated an admendment by Senator McClellan (D-Ark) which would have granted husbands and wives in all the states—rather than only 10 as at present — the right to split their income in making out their tax returns.

On Monday the Republicans turned back by a vote of 48 to 44 a Democratic effort to postpone action on the tax cut until June 10.

As floor manager for the bill, Millikin said he believes the opposition reached its high mark on those two proposals.

As the bill now stands, it calls for income tax reductions ranging from 30 per cent for the lowest paid to 10.5 per cent for those in the top brackets, over a full year's period.

TRUMAN PREPARES EARLY RETURN TO WASHINGTON

Mother Makes Amazing Improvement, President Reports.

By The Associated Press

GRANDVIEW, Mo., May 28—President Truman is planning an early return to Washington in view of the amazing improvement of his mother in the past few days.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mrs. Martha E. Truman's improvement has reached such a point that if there is no setback today, "the President may safely consider an early return" to the White House.

Ross made his observation a few hours after the President said his mother had "the best night" last night since he flew here May 17.

Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, the President's physician, said that the 94-year-old patient's temperature "is now normal," that her respiration "is excellent" and her pulse "is good."

If the President goes home in the next day or two, he plans to fly back out here next week for the reunion of the 35th Division with which he served in World War I.

U. S. REPORTS APRIL TOP STRIKE MONTH FOR YEAR

More Walkouts Than Any Period Since Rail Tieup.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28—There were more strikes in April than in any month since the coal and railroad tie-ups of last May, the bureau of labor statistics reported today.

The nationwide telephone strike, which started April 7 and lasted four to six weeks for 340,000 workers, was the chief cause of idleness during the month, the bureau said.

The "safety" stoppage of John L. Lewis' soft coal miners in April, following a six-day "mourning" period for victims of the Centralia mine blast, was not included in the bureau figures.

April walkouts cost 7,750,000 man-days of work—the equivalent of a day of idleness for that many workers. For the three preceding months, the idleness had average about 1,100,000 man-days, the bureau said.

New strikes mounted from 325 in March to 460 in April and involved 600,000 workers. Including disputes which continued from earlier months, about 625 stoppages involving 650,000 workers were in effect for some part of April.

KANSAS CITY BALLOT BOXES BURGLARIZED

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, May 28—The city board of election commissioners reported today that its vault had been burglarized and the ballot boxes carried away, less than 12 hours after a grand jury had recommended continuation of a probe into alleged fraud in the 1946 primary election."

Ludwick Graves, chairman of the board, was not immediately available for a statement, but members of the office staff said the door of the vault had been forced and the ballot boxes and poll books stolen.

The office, which handles elections and registrations for the city precincts is located on the first floor of the Jackson county courthouse, across the street from the city hall.

A county grand jury report returned last night said that the jury believed Roger C. Slaughter was deprived of the Democratic nomination for congressman in Missouri's Fifth district in the primary last August.

Nicaraguan Usurper Promises Vote Soon

By The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 28 — Gen. Anastasio Somoza, head of the army and former president, has promised the Nicaraguan people that a new election will be held soon to choose a successor to President Leonardo Arguello, who was forced out of office Monday in a bloodless early morning coup.

Somoza acknowledged his leadership of the stroke in an interview last night and blamed the coup d'etat on a plot to oust him from his post as jefe director (director-in-chief) of the national guard. He said he had been marked for death.

Arguello, who has been given diplomatic asylum in the Mexican embassy, was elected — with Somoza's blessing — in balloting Feb. 2 and had held his office only 26 days. He succeeded Somoza, who had been chief of state for 10 years.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat
It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.
If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

TEXAS CITY DISASTER LAID TO IGNORANCE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28—The Coast Guard reported today an investigation of the Texas City disaster April 16 showed ignorance and violations of safety regulations governing the handling of "dangerous" cargoes.

A death-dealing chain of explosions which killed and injured hundreds was set off when a shipment of ammonium nitrate blew up while it was being loaded on the French vessel Grandchamp.

The Coast Guard said its inquiry did not disclose a specific cause of the blast but:

1—"Hardly without exception," all those involved in handling the cargo "displayed lack of knowledge" of safety laws.

2—There was smoking aboard the vessel, during loading operations, despite a "no smoking" rule.

3—Although ammonium nitrate is officially classed as "dangerous," longshoremen were not given instructions on loading it

4—The vessel did not receive, as required by regulations, an advance written notice that a dangerous cargo would be shipped.

The Coast Guard said samples of nitrate similar to the shipment had not blown up when tested with bullets, fire, oil and contact with heated metal, but it urged further study to determine "hazards" of the substance.

FOILED LYNCHING BRINGS 7 ARRESTS

By The Associated Press

JACKSON, N. C., May 28—The state of North Carolina, following up fast-breaking developments in attempted mob action against a young Negro here last Friday, today prepared to bring seven white men to trial on charges of kidnaping in the affair.

Names of the seven, arrested late last night, were withheld by authorities who hinted there might be additional arrests and that disclosure of the names would interfere with the continuing investigation. The men were released on bonds of $2,500 each.

An armed and masked band seized 24-year-old Godwin Bush shortly after he was arrested as a suspect in the attempted rape of a young white stenographer.

The developments followed closely an announcement by the FBI in Washington that a confession had been obtained from one of the members of the mob and that he had implicated "seven other white persons." The FBI, reporting there was no indication of federal law violation, said the information had been turned over to authorities in this northeastern North Carolina county.

25 PER CENT CROP LOSS DEALT BY RAIN

By The Associated Press

WOOSTER, May 28 — Heavy rains have caused a 25 per cent crop loss by Ohio farmers and may result in a 50 per cent cut in yields if current weather conditions continue for two weeks, report several leading state agriculture experts.

Estimating that losses of $100,000,000 have been incurred to date by Ohio farmers as a result of delayed plantings, O. S. Croy, director of northeastern Ohio agriculture agencies, told a meeting of county agents the crop situation was "bad, but not catastrophic.

Croy warned, the situation could become catastrophic if crop plantings are not made possible within a week and favorable weather does not prevail throughout the coming summer and fall.

The agency director predicted the nation's food production would be cut by 25 per cent if crop failures in Iowa, Illinois and Indiana equal losses in Ohio.

"Probably no Ohio crop has been damaged more than potatoes," said John Bushnell, specialist at the Wooster Agriculture Experiment station.

Dr. Earl Jones of Ohio State university asserted the Ohio oats crop could be considered a total loss.

Tomato crops for canneries will be cut 50 per cent and corn and other crops also will suffer severe losses, said Dr. R. E. Yoder, Wooster station agronomist, reporting the Ohio corn yield "drops one bushel per day per acre for each day's planting after May 20.

"As things stand today," he added, "there is practically no corn ground plowed, and if farmers can get on their ground by June 1 they will be lucky."

Three Minor Traffic Accidents Reported

A panel truck backed into a taxi cab on Silver street at Edwards street yesterday afternoon causing slight damage to both vehicles. Bert Angelo of 531 North Prospect street was driver of the truck and the taxi driver was Arthur E. Fryman, 25, of 738 Gill avenue, according to police reports.

Police reported brakes failed to hold on an auto driven by Elias F. Patten, 21, of Silver street and the car backed into one driven by Charles Arndt, 55, of 259 Forest street at 8:40 p. m. The accident occured on Cherry street. Patten had stopped his car to unload passengers.

A collision at the intersection of Church and Main streets was reported to police this morning. Cars driven by Claude Pierce of near Edison and Jack Sullivan, 24, of near Caledonia were involved.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D

Pregnancy

Perhaps the greatest danger to the expectant mother is the possibility that she will develop a condition known as the toxemia of pregnancy. In this disorder there is a marked increase in blood pressure, body tissues become water-logged and swollen, there are vomiting, prostration and sometimes convulsions, coma and death.

Knowing the dangers of toxemia, doctors are always on guard against the condition but in the past unfortunately they have not always been able to prevent its developing. We do not know its exact cause but during recent years research has led to a belief that lack of proteins in the diet may have something to do with it.

More recently still, Dr Ralph Lukart of Creighton university has done much to show ways in which toxemia may be prevented in the vast majority of cases if not entirely eliminated in all.

His plan consisted chiefly in regulation of the diet so that each expectant mother under his care ate during her pregnancy relatively large amounts of protein while cutting down drastically on starches, sweets and other foods of high caloric content.

In this way he limited the total increase in weight during pregnancy to 16 pounds with the maximum gain in any month held to two pounds. All patients were held to this rule and each was impressed with the fact that the scale and not her appetite determined now much she should eat.

This of course meant careful planning of the diet. In addition attention was given to good general hygiene including regularity of the bowels, ample rest and suitable exercise.

An effort also was made to be sure that the patient consumed enough proteins from such foods as meat and milk. Meat or fish was eaten once a day, and liver twice a week in those cases where there was no reason to limit its use. One or two eggs were included daily as well as two servings of cooked green vegetables. They had one of the citrus fruits or tomato juice for breakfast to provide vitamin C and one serving of cooked fruit or canned fruit without heavy syrup later in the day.

Successful weight control during pregnancy depends on the treatment during the first seven months. If the weight gain is not properly controlled during that time, a sudden large weight gain is likely to occur during the last two months, due to the retention of fluids in the tissues. If a patient gains more than a pound in two weeks, there should be a reduction not in the proteins and cooked vegetables, but in the amounts of such foods as ice cream, candy, pastries, cereals and potatoes.

One thousand women who followed this weight control program throughout their pregnancy, remained well and not one case of toxemia of pregnancy developed. Thus it would seem that a diet of this type does have value in preventing this serious disorder of pregnancy, the extra safety it gives being well worth the extra effort of both doctor and patient.

Chicago Cubs Whip Cardinals To Take National League Lead

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Cubs took over first place in the National league last night when they inflicted the first night defeat of the season on the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-3, while the New York Giants were bowing to Brooklyn at the Polo grounds, 7-3.

Ralph Branca, a native New Yorker, had one of his good nights, holding the Giants to seven hits and striking out 10, before a crowd of 31,780 fans, largest ever to witness a National league night game. The big blow of the game was Pee Wee Reese's three-run homer.

After three failures, Johnny Sain finally gained his fourth victory of the season as the Braves took a 7-3 decision from the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game at Boston.

Boston Red Sox snapped a four-game losing streak and stopped the Philadelphia Athletics' run of night game victories at seven with a 4-2 triumph at Philadelphia.

Washington ended a five-game Yankee winning streak, overcoming a 4-0 Yankee lead to defeat the New Yorkers in a night game at Washington, 5-4.

Young Cliff Fannin shut out the Chicago White Sox with three hits as the St. Louis Browns split with the Chicagoans. After Bob Gillespie pitched the White Sox to a 5-2 win over Jackie Kramer and the Browns, Fannin came back to shut out the White Sox 2-0.

Mrs. Roosevelt Calls For Fanatical Belief

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, May 28—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said last night that the United States must be just as willing to work for its beliefs as "any other nation in the world" and replied simply "no" to a suggestion that Henry Wallace be named ambassador to Russia.

Following a speech before the Milwaukee Advertising club, the wife of the late president was asked, "Doesn't the 'get tough' policy (with Russia) invite a reciprocal 'get tough' policy?"

Mrs. Roosevelt replied, "What we believe in we must believe in just as fanatically, and we must be just as willing to work for as any other nation in the world."

Mrs. Roosevelt said the Russians distrusted the United States because we have the greater force and "they are maneuvering very hard to get that force, which we aren't stupid enough to give them at the present time."

REDS ON ROAD AFTER BANGING PIRATES 6-2

Blackwell Notches 6th; Cincy Begins 15-Day Trip.

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, May 28 — The lowly Redlegs of Cincinnati held high hopes today that the current 15-day road trip would provide a cure for their seventh-place ills.

Beginning tonight with their neighbors, the cellar-dwelling Cardinals, the Reds take on four other opponents before returning to their Ohio river home, June 12.

Eddie Erautt, who has a record of one victory and four defeats, was Redleg Manager Johnny Nuen's overnight choice as a starter and George Munger will oppose him.

Behind Ewell Blackwell's four-hit pitching, the Reds scored an easy 6-1 victory at Crosley Field yesterday over the Pittsburgh Pirates. It was the lanky right-hander's sixth victory against two losses.

The Pirates spoiled Blackwell's bid for his second shutout of the season when they collected a double and a single in the ninth to count one marker.

After scoring one run in the third, the Reds put the game on ice with a five-run outburst in the fifth on three hits, a pair of walks and Hank Greenberg's error.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press

Batting. George Kell, Tigers—Slammed four successive singles, three against Bobby Feller, drove in three runs and scored another to lead the Tigers to a 4-2 triumph over the Indians.

Pitching. Cliff Fannin, Browns—Held the White Sox to three singles after six scoreless innings and shut them out 2-0 to give the Browns a split with Chicago. The White Sox won the opener 5-2.

Feller Downed 4-2 As Cleveland Skids

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, May 28—The skidding Cleveland Indians were looking today for a few king-sized hypodermics to inject a little hitting serum into their baseball bats.

Suffering their third straight defeat yesterday, the Tribesmen finally snapped their scoreless innings streak at 19 but were topped by the league-leading Detroit Tigers, 4-2.

Bob Feller, beset by wildness in the first frame, yielded three runs and eight of the Tigers' 10 hits during a six-inning stint as he suffered his fourth loss against five victories. Reliefer Al Gettel permitted an unearned Detroit run in the eighth.

In the middle of his worst slump of the year, Tribe left fielder Pat Seerey extended his hitless streak to 16 straight appearances at the plate and fanned for the 30th time in 26 games during the Indian's promising eighth inning rally.

With two out in the seventh, the Tribe crossed the plate for the first time this week on Lou Boudreau's walk, plus Ken Keltner's third single and pinch-hitter Les Fleming's double. Detroit hurler Al Benton ended the rally by forcing Hal Peck to fly out with the bases loaded.

Southpaw Hal Newhouser yielded the second run in the eighth on Boudreau's double and singles by Eddie Robinson and Joe Gordon.

Detroit tallied a pair of "lucky" runs in the first when George Kell's pop fly fell safely for a single after two were out. Plating the third run with a one-bagger in the sixth after Dick Wakefield's triple, the Tiger third sacker also scored an unearned marker on George Metkovich's error in the eighth.

Red Embree, who has won three of six starts this season, takes the mound for Cleveland today against Dizzy Trout as the Tribe attempts to salvage the final two tilts of the four-game series.

Wrestles the Red Devil Thursday

Marion wrestling fans will get Thursday night at the Marion Armory what they ask for — a match between Sammy Kohen "Red Devil" and Rufus Jones the head-butting colored gent from New York City. Marion fans will likely be pulling for Rufus Thursday, something they very seldom do, but last week the rough tactics of the Red Devil was such that they wanted to see somebody take him apart and thought that Rufus was the one to do it. This will be the two hour main event with the best two out of three falls to decide the winner.

While the main event is bound to be a rough match, not so for the one hour semi-final also two out of three falls, for it brings to Marion the Milwaukee boy with the perfect body, Gordon Hessell, who will take on Frankie Clemons, the Battle Creek Indian boy. Last week Frankie claims he didn't hear the count on his match with the Red Devil.

The two Marion boys who will start the show at 8:30 with a ten minute prelim are Frank Sloate and Charles Frost. This is a show to suit all fans with a rough and clean matches, so call Markert & Lewis early for your best seats. Prices range from 50c for Kids to 75c for general and $1.00 for the Reserved Ringside.—Adv.

HOOVER SUGGESTS U.S. SEPARATE PEACE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28 — Chairman Taber (R-NY) of the house appropriations committee declared today the administration should accept "immediately" Herbert Hoover's suggestion this country write its own peace treaties with Germany and Japan.

"Its perfectly apparent the administration has let things get out of hand," Taber told reporters after observing that American financial commitments abroad between now and July 1, 1948, will amount to close to $5,000,000,000 if pending legislation is passed in its present form.

Declining to suggest a deadline for getting Russia's agreement to speed big-power treaty making, the New York lawmaker contended: "The more we fool around with it, the more we get involved in international handouts."

Taber's opinion was advanced against the background of a two-hour private huddle between Hoover and an appropriations subcommittee. At that meeting yesterday the former Republican chief executive expressed his approval of a $725,000,000 Army appropriation request for civilian relief in Germany, Austria, Korea and Japan.

It probably will be at least a week or 10 days before the subcommittee completes its review of the Army's "civil functions" financial needs, including the relief program in the occupied zones."

Explosion of Atomic Bomb In Cloud Seen Bringing Death Rain

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 28—Scientists are weighing the possibility of exploding an atomic bomb in the midst of storm clouds to create a literal rain of death.

The advantage of this technique, experts studying the plan told a reporter today, is that a city far inland could be drenched with radio activity without the necessity of exploding a bomb under water, as was done in the Bikini experiments.

Until now, coastal cities or those near large rivers or lakes were the most probable targets for such type atomic bombing.

Power May Fail Plan

Some scientists contend that a bomb exploded in a cloud bank might first blast the cloud away and then dissipate its moisture high into the air and away from the target.

But proponents of the idea say it would be necessary only to watch the drift of weather toward a target and select a day when rain clouds several thousand feet thick were floating overhead. Radar would pick up the target for bombing plane, and the bomb would be exploded in the thick of the storm. Rain falling from the clouds would be poisoned with the deadly by-product of the bomb's explosion.

The use of radioactivity in this manner would be aside from previously reported plans for spraying a target area with radioactive material released from an airplane.

Eye Snow Making Experiment

Military strategists also are eyeing rainclouds in connection with another recent scientific discover, the creation of artificial snow or rainstorms by the release of "dry ice" or solid carbon dioxide into clouds.

Airmen see military value in the dry ice technique if it can be developed to the point where a whole cloud mass can be turned into water and precipitated.

If aerial photographic reconnaissance of a future target is prevented by a low cloud accumulation, they say, the clouds be "swept away" or a hole punched in them to permit the reconnaissance plane to make its picture.

GRAND PRAIRIE SERVICES HELD IN BAPTIST CHURCH

Dr. Sundberg of Springfield Gives Address.

Dr. "Sunny" Sundberg of Springfield was the guest speaker at the Memorial Day services held Sunday afternoon at Grand Prairie Baptist church. Due to the rain the original plan to have the ceremonies at the cemetery had to be abandoned. Dr. Sundberg chose as his subject "not death, but life, life eternal, a joy to remember on Memorial day."

Rev. C. R. Matews of the Baptist church of Wyandot gave the invocation and benediction. Mrs. Elmer Myers was in charge of the program which included musical selections by the Grand Prairie school band under the direction of Miss Ruth Dryer, vocal numbers by the girls glee club, a cornet solo by Miss Helen Lyons and two numbers by the boys and girls' chorus.

Weather Halts Plans for Softball League Opening.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, May 28 — The weather again upset the sports scheduled in Bucyrus, postponing softball games scheduled for Monday night and seriously interfering with the registered shoot held at Bucyrus Gun club Sunday.

Although approximately 50 shooters were on hand for the events in spite of the all day rain Sunday, scores were in the lowest bracket ever to be posted here. Dr. R. D. Miller of Marion won the 100 target event with 91 birds and G. F. Dominy, also of Marion was second with 90. In the 50 target handicap Sam Kern of Marion broke a 46, Dr. Miller placing second with 45.

Due to the condition of the city softball fields no definite date has been set for the opening of the league which has already been postponed three times.

Meanwhile, action on a probate court waiver of jurisdiction of the minor prisoner was delayed indefinitely pending notification of the boy's mother.

The court was informed that Terpening's mother, Mrs. Mattie Arnold, has been living in Iowa and now is returning to nearby Romeo, Mich., to make her home.

Prosecutor Smith explained that the mother had not been notified of th waiver hearing as required under Michigan law.

Young Terpening sat with bowed head through the brief hearing before Probate Judge Glenn L. Hollenbeck. His father stood behind him with a hand on the son's shoulder.

This development automatically forced a delay in the boy's arraignment on a murder charge before Justice of the Peace Robert H. Perkins.

Terpening, one of a family of 14 children, is charged specifically with the murder of Barbara, his farm neighbor at Imlay City and said by officers to have been his "girl friend."

State Police Commissioner Don S. Leonard said the boy also admitted killing Stanley Smith, Barbara's 14-year-old brother and his best chum, and her sisters, Gladys 12, and Janet, 2.

Court authorities indicated Terpening's case will not be handled speedily. Once he is arraigned in justice court, an appearance will follow in circuit court if the boy waives examination.

BANKER AND MOTHER TIED UP BY BANDITS

By The Associated Press

TRACY CITY, Tenn., May 28—Alvin Henderson, bank cashier, was kidnaped from his home, tied in his automobile and his aged mother was bound in the attempted robbery of the First National bank here early today.

The cashier told officers he was picked up in his automobile about seven miles from here but escaped unharmed after his abductors fled.

Sheriff D. E. Grooms launched a search for two or more men reported involved in the abduction after Henderson's mother, Mrs. Ida Henderson, 70, said her son was taken from their home four blocks from the bank about 1 a. m.

She said a man carrying a pistol met her with strips of sheet ripped from a bed and then forced her son to drive to the bank.

Then entering the bank the robber said he wanted "the payroll" of $40,000 for Tennessee Consolidated Mines, Henderson explained he was unable to open the vault and it was not entered.

Henderson was left bound in his own car. The kidnaper was picked up by another car, the sheriff reported.

RECOVERY SWING IN MARKET CONTINUED

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 28—The late Tuesday recovery swing was extended on a selective basis in today's stock market although buying was far from urgent.

Advances of fractions to around 2 points ruled near midday.

On the upside most of the time were Douglas Aircraft, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Kennecott, General Electric, Union Carbide, U. S. Gypsum, Bethlehem, Texas Co., Santa Fe and Great Northern Railway. Pleasing dividends lifted Mathieson Alkali and West Indies Sugar.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

MARY'S eyes were inscrutable as they looked up at me, and I realized why Dr Twitchell intended to make another call on her in the afternoon

She was still dallying with the idea of 'getting out of the world under her own power," as Dicky phrased it, and as long as even a filament of that idea lingered, we could not relax our vigilance for an instant

'Well," she said slowly at last "at least I can cushion the corners for Noel as long as I can So I'll promise you this"

She drew a long breath and looked up at me, her eyes bright with determination, and, yes, unbelievably, with mirth She had begun to "put on her act" I suspected that she was rehearsing on me

"I'll fool my darling husband to the top of his bent," she orated 'I'll make him believe I'm a most miraculous recovery, almost as quick a recovery as I used to be a study'

I heard her quick gasp at her last words but I carefully looked away, for it was my cue I knew, to pretend not to hear her grim allusions to the secret which was preying upon her And the next instant she had caught back her poise

'I'll send him back to his various activities with wings on his shoulders, and his feet" she tattled on "And I'll make sure he stays put at his darling papa's until I can take him by the hand and lead him down to our little love nest Will that do?"

Katharine Comes Back

"You know very well it will do," I told her, hugging her warmly and then Katharine came back from the other room

'They've promised breakfast in fifteen minutes at the longest for you, Mary," she said "Madge yours will be up at the same time, and mine will come later, when I telephone for it You see, I had an early breakfast with Jack before he left—cooked it myself in the apartment—and I'm not hungry now"

She went to the closet, took down a negligee and turned to Mary

"You might as well eat breakfast in style' she said 'Would you like to have it on a table by the window instead of in bed?'

I caught back a gasp of astonished dismay at Katharine's question Had she forgotten what I had murmured to her about Mary's horror of the barred windows'

But the next instant I understood that she was studying her patient closely, dissecting her emotions and that she wished to see for herself Mary's reaction at the mention of the windows

A Perceptible Shudder

We both saw it instantly A perceptible shudder ran over Dicky's lovely niece, and she looked at the window with something in her eyes which seemed to bring a breath of icy air into the room

Then her body stiffened, she threw up her head with a resolute little gesture, and spoke with carefully assumed carelessness

"I don't want breakfast in bed, that's certain," she said "I've had enough of those this last year to last me if I live to be two hundred And I think the window would be lovely Only I'm so silly I feel a bit cold Do you think there'd be a draught there'

"Nothing worth mentioning" Katharine said truthfully 'But if you're feling chilly, we're not taking any chances We'll put your chair over here in the corner by the reading lamp, and plug in the electric heater so it will be facing you Then that famous old bug in the rug won't have anything on you in snugness How does that program strike you?"

Nerves Relaxed

"As something off the top of the milk bottle' Mary said, and my own nerves relaxed at the relief in her voice

'Then," Katharine said briskly, "your Majesty's ladies-in-waiting are ready to wait Madge, will you stand by with slippers and robe' I don't want any chance of this girl 'getting chilled'

I was at her side immediately, and she held out her hands to Mary

"Sit up swing to the front, and stick, not your neck, but your under-pinnings, out over the edge of the bed Madge will you act as the shoe salesman? Give me the robe, please!"
